

Tech Talk: The best apps to engage students

Are you overwhelmed by all of the apps available to help our children learn? Come for a fun, enlightening discussion on March 28, 7 p.m. in the Merry Room of the Duxbury Free Library when Sean Sweeney, MS, MEd, CCC-SLP, an SLP and technology specialist working in private practice at the Ely Center in Newton will discuss the most current and dynamic apps out there to help children acquire skills in language and beyond.

Mr. Sweeney consults to local and national organizations on technology integration in speech and language interventions. Recently, he has spoken at the national American Speech Language Hearing Association Convention and national and regional Social Thinking Provider's Conferences on creatively utilizing apps in language interventions. His blog, SpeechTechie (speechtechie.com), looks at technology "through a language lens."

Advance registration for this program is requested and can be done either online at duxburyfreelibrary.org, by phone at 781-934-2721 ext. 115, or in person at the children's help desk.
